

Son et Lumiere

Shiplake College is presenting a dramatised Son et Lumiere, telling the history of the site and surroundings of Shiplake Court, from Monday to Thursday next week.

The beautiful setting on the banks of the Thames will make a delightful backdrop for this ambitious production which will take place on both fronts of the old house.

Musical presentations, fragments of drama — and welcome refreshments — will be combined with a resume of the stirring events and striking personalities that have been the history of the mansion and estate.

Like "Jesus Christ, Superstar" four years ago, this is a production that will, in some ways, involve the entire college community.

The performance begins at 9 p.m. and a barbecue supper is available beforehand. There are still tickets available for all performances and enquiries are welcome to the concert secretary on Wargrave 2455.

Tutor Don Morphy, servants Henry Cook and John Everett, lawyer Hans Wells-Furby, "Dog" Jennings (Mike Llewellyn) and Mrs. Jennings (Marjorie White) in a scene from "The Rake's Departure."
