SHIPLAKE College play Zimbabwean tourists, Peterhouse College, on Sunday (2) in a memorial match for Charlotte Starmer-Smith, who died of a rare blood disorder last month.

Charlotte, 16, daughter of BBC commentator and former England scrum-half, Nigel Starmer-Smith, attended the neighbouring Queen Anne's school and lived a stone's throw from Shiplake, near Henley-on-Thames.

A memorial programme has already raised more than £3,000, while autographed England shirts and other memorabilia will be raffled, with proceeds going to the Royal Berkshire Hospital, Reading.

Changes made for trip to Reading

After a disappointing performance against Penryn, Henley make nine changes for this week's friendly fixture at Reading.

Last year's Colts wing forward Doug McArthur gets a 1st team debut chance, having played consistently well for the Wanderers this season.

With vital league matches coming up, the selectors will be using the next two Saturdays to find the best combinations and competition for places will be hard.

For anyone missed by last week's notes, the quiz night on December 6th has been cancelled and the next opportunity to test your skills will be January 31st.

Rugby stars in action

International rugby stars will be gracing the playing fields of Shiplake College on Sunday in a charity match.

The College team will be taking on Peterhouse School from Zimbabwe in what promises to be an exciting clash of strength.

Proceeds from the match will go towards the Charlotte Starmer-Smith Medical Fund at the Royal Berkshire Hospital, a fund set up following the recent death of the 16-year-old daughter of former rugby international and BBC presenter Nigel Starmer-Smith.

England rugby stars Rob

Andrew and Paul Ackford have confirmed they will be giving their support. Peter Yarranton, Sports Council chairman and president of the Rugby Union, will also be present.

International referee, Roger Quilterton, will be ensuring there is fair play on the field.

The 80-piece marching jazz band, the Cadence Drum and Bugle Corps, will be giving a performance for 30 minutes before the match begins at 2 p.m.

There will also be a tombola, raffle, refreshments and a "name the rugby bear" competition.
